About me

I specialize in web development, focusing on React, with extensive experience in front-end development using frameworks like Next.js and Vite, and back-end development with Node.js and FastAPI. Throughout my career, I've honed my skills through a variety of personal projects and industry experience. Moreover, I've collaborated closely with clients to deliver tailored technological solutions that meet their specific needs, allowing me to gain a deep understanding of their requirements and a reputation for delivering quality solutions. For more information about my experience, projects, and skills as a web developer, please visit my website at frang.vercel.app. I hope you find it interesting!
